ANNE EVANS,

v.

Plaintiff,

EQUIFAX INFORMATION SERVICES,
LLC, et al.,

Defendants.

Case No. 2:23-cv-00237-MMD-DJA

ORDER

I. SUMMARY

Plaintiff Anne Evans brings this action under the Fair Credit Reporting Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq. (“FCRA” or “Act”). Following her discharge from Chapter 13 bankruptcy, Plaintiff sued Defendants—a consumer reporting agency and several furnishers—after they misreported her consumer information and, after receiving notice of Plaintiff’s dispute, failed to investigate the dispute and correct errors, as required under the Act. (ECF No. 1 (“Complaint”)). Before the Court is Defendant Bank of America, N.A.’s (“BANA”) motion to dismiss (ECF No. 23) and Plaintiff’s motion to strike (ECF No. 28).¹ As further explained below, the Court will grant in part, and deny in part, BANA’s motion to dismiss and will deny Plaintiff’s motion to strike.

II. BACKGROUND

The following allegations are adapted from the Complaint.

¹Plaintiff filed a response to BANA’s motion to dismiss (ECF No. 26), to which BANA replied (ECF No. 27). BANA responded to Plaintiff’s motion to strike (ECF No. 33), and Plaintiff replied (ECF No. 35).

1 On September 27, 2017, Plaintiff filed for Chapter 13 bankruptcy.² (ECF Nos. 1 at 2 4; 23-2 at 2-3.) “Chapter 13 of the Bankruptcy Code affords individuals receiving regular 3 income an opportunity to obtain some relief from their debts while retaining their property.
 4 To proceed under Chapter 13, a debtor must propose a plan to use future income to repay 5 a portion (or in the rare case all) of his debts over the next three to five years.” Bullard v.
 6 Blue Hills Bank, 575 U.S. 496, 498 (2015). “If the bankruptcy court confirms the plan and 7 the debtor successfully carries it out, he receives a discharge of his debts according to 8 the plan.” Id. Here, Plaintiff’s bankruptcy plan was confirmed on July 2, 2018, and Plaintiff 9 was eventually discharged from bankruptcy.³ (ECF Nos. 1 at 4-5; 23-1 at 5.)

10 On November 18, 2022, Plaintiff ordered a credit report from Equifax, a consumer 11 reporting agency (“CRA”). (Id. at 6.) In the report, Plaintiff noticed an error relating to her 12 account with BANA (i.e., an unsecured debt in favor of BANA totaling $7,524.00), where 13 it showed the “date of first delinquency of June 2017 and [the] date the delinquency was 14 first reported of September 2017.” (ECF Nos. 1 at 6; 23-2 at 3.) Plaintiff alleges this report 15 was inaccurate because “[t]he date of first delinquency should match the date it first 16 occurred.” (ECF No. 1 at 6.) This reporting error caused Plaintiff’s BANA account “to 17 remain on Plaintiff’s credit report for a period longer than it should [have].” (Id.)

18 The next month, on December 12, 2022, Plaintiff sent a dispute letter to Equifax 19 about the allegedly “inaccurate, misleading, and derogatory information” in her credit 20 report. (Id. at 7.) According to Plaintiff, “Equifax provided each of the furnisher defendants

21 ²Upon BANA’s request, the Court takes judicial notice of Exhibits A and B attached 22 to its motion to dismiss. (ECF Nos. 23 at 4-5; see also ECF Nos. 23-1, 23-2.) See also 23 Fed. R. Evid. 201. These exhibits, which show Plaintiff’s 2017 bankruptcy petition and 24 case docket in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the District of Nevada, are undisputed 25 records of the federal government. See Disabled Rights Action Comm. v. Las Vegas Events, Inc., 375 F.3d 861, 866 n.1 (9th Cir. 2004) (“Under Federal Rule of Evidence 201, we may take judicial notice of the records of state agencies and other undisputed matters of public record.”).

26 ³Plaintiff alleges she was discharged from bankruptcy on November 20, 2020.
 27 (ECF No. 1 at 5.) However, Plaintiff’s bankruptcy case docket appears to show that Plaintiff was discharged “after Completion of Chapter 13 Plan” on October 14, 2022—nearly two years after the discharge date alleged in the Complaint. (ECF No. 23-1 at 3.)
 BANA states in its motion to dismiss that Plaintiff was discharged on October 14, 2022.
 (ECF No. 23 at 2.)

1 with a notice regarding Plaintiff's dispute." (Id.) On February 3, 2023, Plaintiff received 2 notice that Equifax and BANA, among other furnisher Defendants, had investigated and 3 reinvestigated her dispute. (Id.) Despite these investigations, however, "each of the 4 furnisher defendants continued to report the inaccurate information," and Equifax "re-5 reported the inaccurate information" in Plaintiff's credit report. (Id. at 8.)

6 Plaintiff alleges that BANA failed to conduct a reasonable investigation of Plaintiff's 7 dispute and "further failed to correct and update Plaintiff's information" as required under 8 the FCRA. (Id.) According to Plaintiff, "[a] reasonable investigation . . . would have 9 determined that [Defendants] were reporting the above disputed information 10 inaccurately." (Id. at 7.) Finally, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants' actions "constitute 11 numerous and multiple willful, reckless, or negligent violations of the FCRA." (Id. at 9.)

12 In the Complaint, Plaintiff asserts one FCRA claim against Defendants BANA, 13 Equifax Information Services, LLC, and Citigroup, Inc./Citicards CBNA.⁴ (ECF No. 1.)

14 III. DISCUSSION

15 BANA moves to dismiss Plaintiff's sole FCRA claim. (ECF No. 23.) Plaintiff also 16 moves to strike portions of BANA's reply brief in support of its motion to dismiss. (ECF 17 No. 28) Before addressing the merits of BANA's motion to dismiss, the Court must first 18 resolve the issues raised in Plaintiff's motion to strike. Then, the Court will address 19 BANA's motion to dismiss and whether it will grant Plaintiff leave to amend.

20 A. Motion to Strike (ECF No. 28)

21 Plaintiff moves to strike BANA's reply brief because BANA raises new arguments 22 for the first time in the brief. (ECF No. 28 at 2.) Plaintiff cites Federal Rule of Civil 23 Procedure 12(f) and the Ninth Circuit's "general rule" "that appellants cannot raise a new 24 issue for the first time in their reply briefs." Eberle v. City of Anaheim, 901 F.2d 814, 818 25 (9th Cir. 1990) (citation and quotation marks omitted). Alternatively, Plaintiff moves for 26 leave to file a surreply. (Id. at 3.)

27 28 ⁴Plaintiff has voluntarily dismissed Defendants Capital One Bank, N.A. and JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A. with prejudice. (See ECF Nos. 7, 34.)

First, the Court denies Plaintiff's motion to strike to the extent she invokes Rule 12(f); this rule only applies to pleadings and thus does not provide for a motion to strike documents or portions of documents (e.g., a reply brief) other than pleadings. Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(f) ("The court may strike from a pleading an insufficient defense or any redundant, immaterial, impertinent, or scandalous matter."); Fed. R. Civ. P. 7(a) (identifying "pleadings" as the complaint, answer, and reply to an answer, but not motions and other papers); see also Sidney-Vinstein v. A.H. Robins Co., 697 F.2d 880, 885 (9th Cir. 1983); Herb Reed Enters., LLC v. Fla. Ent. Mgmt., Inc., Case No. 2:12-cv-00560-MMD-GWF, 2014 WL 1305144, at *6 (D. Nev. Mar. 31, 2014) ("Under Rule 12(f) a court may strike from a pleading any redundant, immaterial, impertinent, or scandalous matter. However, motions to strike apply only to pleadings, and courts are generally unwilling to construe the rule broadly and refuse to strike motions, briefs, objections, affidavits, or exhibits attached thereto.") (citations omitted).

However, the Court will disregard new arguments raised in BANA's reply brief. See Pacquiao v. Mayweather, Case No. 2:09-cv-2448-LRH-RJJ, 2010 WL 3271961, at *1 (D. Nev. Aug. 13, 2010) ("[T]o the extent that a party raises a new argument or proffers new evidence and information in a reply brief, that argument or evidence is improper because the opposing party is deprived of an opportunity to respond.") (quoting Tovar v. U.S. Postal Serv., 3 F.3d 1271, 1273 n.3 (9th Cir. 1993)). The Court therefore disregards page 2, line 22 through page 3, line 3 of the reply brief, in which BANA argues its credit reporting was accurate as a "complete defense." (ECF No. 27 at 2-3.)

Lastly, the Court denies Plaintiff's alternative request for leave to file a surreply, which would address the three arguments Plaintiff seeks to strike. (ECF No. 28 at 3-6.) Local Rule 7-2(b) provides for the filing of a motion, a response, and a reply. LR 7-2(b). "Surreplies are not permitted without leave of court; motions for leave to file a surreply are discouraged." Id. Because surreplies are discouraged, "[o]nly the most exceptional or extraordinary circumstances warrant permitting a surreply to be filed." Stevens v. Prentice, Case No. 2:17-cv-00970-JCM-PAL, 2018 WL 3758577, at *1 (D. Nev. Aug. 8,

1 2018) (citation omitted). Here, a surreply—already disfavored—is unnecessary for the 2 Court to properly resolve BANA’s motion to dismiss. Moreover, allowing Plaintiff to file her 3 surreply risks constituting an “improper attempt to have the last word on an issue” already 4 briefed by the parties. Smith v. United States, Case No. 2:13-cv-00039-JAD-GWF, 2014
 5 WL 1301357, at *5 (D. Nev. Mar. 28, 2014). Therefore, the Court denies Plaintiff’s request.

6 For these reasons, the Court denies Plaintiff’s motion to strike portions of BANA’s 7 reply brief, and denies Plaintiff’s alternative request for leave to file a surreply.

8 B. Motion to Dismiss (ECF No. 23)

9 BANA argues that Plaintiff’s FCRA claim must be dismissed for three reasons.
 10 First, the Complaint improperly “lumps” together all Defendants in a single, broad 11 allegation, such that it does not differentiate any of their actions and thus “fails to provide 12 BANA with fair notice of Plaintiff’s claims against BANA (as opposed to any other 13 ‘Defendants’ or ‘Furnishers’).” (ECF No. 23 at 5-6.) Second, Plaintiff “does not allege any 14 facts specifically against any Defendant, and particularly against BANA, in support of [her] 15 bare legal conclusion” that Defendants inaccurately reported her information and failed to 16 conduct a reasonable investigation. (Id. at 6-8.) Third, BANA argues that Plaintiff’s FCRA 17 claim fails to the extent she alleges a negligent violation claim because she fails to 18 adequately allege having suffered actual damages as a result of BANA’s actions. (Id. at 19 8-11.) As explained below, the Court grants in part, and denies in part, BANA’s motion to 20 dismiss.

21 1. Impermissible “Lumping”

22 Construing the Complaint in the light most favorable to Plaintiff, the Court finds that 23 Plaintiff does not impermissibly “lump” together BANA and other Defendants such that it 24 violates the notice pleading standards of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8. See Starr v.
 25 Baca, 652 F.3d 1202, 1212 (9th Cir. 2011) (“[U]nder the federal rules a complaint is 26 required only to give the notice of the claim such that the opposing party may defend 27 himself or herself effectively.”); Adobe Sys. Inc. v. Blue Source Group, Inc., 125 F. Supp.
 28 3d 945, 964 (N.D. Cal. 2015) (collecting cases). Plaintiff alleges having a specific account

1 with BANA, for which BANA furnished personal information to Equifax. (ECF No. 1 at 6 2 (“In Plaintiff’s consumer report from Equifax dated November 18, 2022, Equifax and 3 B[ANA] inaccurately reported account No: *4799 . . .”); see also ECF No. 23-2 at 3.)
 4 Plaintiff also alleges that she sent a dispute letter to Equifax about her account with BANA, 5 and that Equifax in turn timely notified BANA about Plaintiff’s dispute, triggering BANA’s 6 statutory duty to investigate the dispute. (Id. at 7.) Thus, the Complaint provides sufficient 7 notice to BANA as to the nature of the claims—here, a sole FCRA claim against a 8 furnisher—being asserted against it and its conduct at issue. See Adobe, 125 F. Supp.
 9 3d at 964-65. The Court accordingly denies BANA’s motion on this ground.

10 2. The Fair Credit Reporting Act

11 Next, BANA argues that Plaintiff fails to allege sufficient facts in the Complaint to 12 state a colorable FCRA claim. (ECF No. 23 at 6-8.) Construing the Complaint in the light 13 most favorable to Plaintiff, the Court disagrees.

14 a. Statutory Framework

15 Congress enacted the FCRA in 1970 to promote “fair and accurate credit reporting” 16 and to protect consumer privacy. 15 U.S.C. § 1681(a). “To achieve those goals, the Act 17 regulates the consumer reporting agencies that compile and disseminate personal 18 information about consumers.” TransUnion LLC v. Ramirez, 141 S.Ct. 2190, 2200 (2020).
 19 The Act “imposes a host of requirements concerning the creation and use of consumer 20 reports.” Spokeo, Inc. v. Robins, 578 U.S. 330, 335 (2016).

21 Relevant to BANA’s motion, the FCRA also imposes duties on “furnishers,” such 22 as credit card issuers, lenders, and insurers, that provide consumer information to CRAs.
 23 See Gorman v. Wolpoff & Abramson, LLP, 584 F.3d 1147, 1153-54 & n.7 (9th Cir. 2009) 24 (citing 15 U.S.C. § 1681s-2). Among these obligations is a furnisher’s duty to conduct an 25 investigation “upon notice of dispute,” that is, “when a person who furnished information 26 to [a CRA] receives notice from the [CRA] that the consumer disputes the information.” 27 Id. at 1154 (citing 15 U.S.C. §§ 1681li(a)(2), 1681s-2(b)). The Ninth Circuit has interpreted 28 the Act to require a furnisher to conduct a “reasonable” investigation to satisfy the statute.

1 See id. at 1157 (holding that a furnisher's "investigation pursuant to § 1681s-2(b)(1)(A) 2 may not be unreasonable"). This duty, however, does not arise until the furnisher receives 3 notice of a dispute from a CRA; "notice of a dispute received directly from the consumer 4 does not trigger furnishers' duties under [§ 1681s-2(b)]." See id. at 1154 (citations 5 omitted).

6 The Act creates a private right of action for consumers to sue and recover for either 7 willful or negligent violations. 15 U.S.C. §§ 1681n & o. If a plaintiff can prove a willful 8 violation, she will be entitled to either statutory damages or any actual damages, plus 9 other damages. Id. at § 1681n(a)(1)(A). "On the other hand, if a plaintiff can only prove a 10 negligent violation of the FCRA [under § 1681o(a)(1)], the plaintiff must also show actual 11 damages caused by the conduct constituting a violation of the statute to make out a cause 12 of action." Banga v. Chevron U.S.A. Inc., Case No. C-11-01498 JCS, 2013 WL 71772, at 13 *11 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 7, 2013) (citations omitted). The FCRA also allows recovery for 14 emotional distress in connection to negligent violations. See Guimond v. Trans Union 15 Credit Info. Co., 45 F.3d 1329, 1333 (9th Cir. 1995) (citations omitted).

16 b. Analysis

17 Plaintiff alleges a colorable FCRA claim against BANA. According to the 18 Complaint, Plaintiff ordered a credit report from Equifax, a CRA; in that report she noticed 19 an error relating to her account with BANA. (ECF No. 1 at 6.) The report showed "a 20 delinquency first reported date that is [three months] later than the date of first 21 delinquency," when in fact "[t]he date of first delinquency should match the date it first 22 occurred." (ECF Nos. 1 at 6; 26 at 4, 8.) Whether factually inaccurate or otherwise 23 misleading, this alleged reporting error caused Plaintiff's BANA account delinquency "to 24 remain on Plaintiff's credit report for a period longer than it should [have]." (ECF No. 1 at 25 6.) Plaintiff then sent a dispute letter to Equifax about the allegedly "inaccurate, 26 misleading, and derogatory information" in her credit report. (Id. at 7.) According to 27 Plaintiff, "Equifax provided each of the furnisher defendants with a notice regarding 28 Plaintiff's dispute." (Id.) Assuming that (1) Plaintiff's credit report was inaccurate or

1 incomplete under the FCRA, and (2) BANA received notice of Plaintiff's dispute from 2 Equifax, the Court can reasonably infer that BANA had a duty to conduct an investigation 3 of Plaintiff's dispute. Indeed, Plaintiff alleges having received notice that both Defendants 4 Equifax and BANA had investigated and reinvestigated her dispute. (Id.) Because "each 5 of the furnisher defendants continued to report the inaccurate information" and "failed to 6 correct and update Plaintiff's information" despite previous investigations, the Court can 7 reasonably infer from the Complaint that BANA violated its duty to conduct a reasonable 8 investigation under the FCRA (Id. at 8.) See also Gorman, 584 F.3d at 1154, 1157; 15
 9 U.S.C. §§ 1681li(a)(2), 1681s-2(b). Because Plaintiff has sufficiently alleged BANA's 10 violation of the FCRA, the Court denies BANA's motion to dismiss on this ground.

11 c. Request for Actual Damages under the FCRA

12 In the Complaint, Plaintiff seeks "actual damages" under the FCRA based on 13 allegations that BANA's statutory violations were negligent. (ECF No. 1 at 8-9.) 14 Specifically, Plaintiff alleges having suffered actual damages in the form of (1) out-of-15 pocket expenses in disputing Defendants' inaccurate reporting, (2) injury to Plaintiff's 16 creditworthiness, and (3) emotional distress and humiliation. (Id.) BANA moves to dismiss 17 Plaintiff's claim for negligent violation of the FCRA because Plaintiff has not adequately 18 alleged actual damages. (ECF No. 23 at 9-10.)

19 A consumer plaintiff who alleges a negligent violation of the FCRA can recover 20 actual damages. See 15 U.S.C. § 1681o; see also In re Ocwen Loan Servicing LLC Litig., 21 240 F. Supp. 3d 1070, 1077 (D. Nev. 2017) ("[N]egligent noncompliance is distinguishable 22 from willful noncompliance because the FCRA explicitly states that a successful 23 consumer under a negligent noncompliant claim may receive actual damages."); Banga, 24 2013 WL 71772, at *11. In other words, "[t]o state a claim for a negligent violation of the 25 FCRA under Section 1681o, a plaintiff must allege that they sustained actual damages."
 26 Warr v. Centr. Garden & Pet Co., Case No. 20-cv-09405-JST, 2021 WL 6275013, at *10 27 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 21, 2021) (citation and quotation marks omitted). "Actual damages may 28 include damages for humiliation, mental distress, and injury to reputation and

1 creditworthiness, even if the plaintiff has suffered no out-of-pocket losses.” Seungtae Kim 2 v. BMW Fin. Servs. NA, LLC, 142 F. Supp. 3d 935, 944 (C.D. Cal. 2015) (citations and 3 quotation marks omitted). “Courts in this circuit routinely hold, based on the plain 4 language of § 1681o of the FCRA, that a plaintiff’s failure to allege actual damages 5 requires the dismissal of his claim for negligent violations of the FCRA.” Warr, 2021 WL 6 6275013, at *10 (citations omitted).

7 BANA does not appear to dispute Plaintiff’s allegations of out-of-pocket costs as a 8 form of actual damages. Instead, BANA argues that Plaintiff fails to allege sufficient facts 9 to raise a reasonable inference that she suffered (1) an injury to her creditworthiness and 10 (2) emotional distress or humiliation. (ECF Nos. 23 at 9-10; 27 at 6-7.)

11 To start, the Court can reasonably infer from the Complaint that Plaintiff suffered 12 an injury to her creditworthiness due to BANA’s alleged negligent noncompliance. BANA 13 specifically argues that Plaintiff fails to allege “any causal connection between BANA’s 14 alleged FCRA violation and her purportedly injured credit.” (ECF No. 23 at 9.) Contrary to 15 BANA’s assertion, the fact that other Defendants’ violations (i.e., inaccurate reporting) 16 and Plaintiff’s bankruptcy altogether harmed Plaintiff’s creditworthiness does not 17 necessarily mean that BANA’s actions did not also contribute to this injury. The issue of 18 causation between BANA’s allegedly unreasonable investigation and Plaintiff’s 19 creditworthiness is better left for a factfinder to determine and is thus premature to resolve 20 on a motion to dismiss. See Guimond, 45 F.3d at 1333. Additionally, the Court rejects 21 BANA’s argument that Plaintiff fails to sufficiently plead an injury to her creditworthiness 22 because she does not allege being denied credit (or favorable credit terms) as a result of 23 BANA’s actions.⁵ (Id.) “[N]o case has held that a denial of credit is a prerequisite to 24

 25 ⁵BANA substantiates this argument with just one case—Duarte v. Quality Loan

26 Serv. Corp.

27 , Case No. 2:17-cv-08014-ODW-PLA, 2018 WL 2121800 (C.D. Cal. May 8, 28 2018)—which is inapposite here. While the district court in Duarte found that the plaintiffs’ allegations of injuries to their creditworthiness were “speculative and conclusory,” these allegations did not relate to an FCRA claim, but rather to a California state unfair competition law (Business and Professions Code Section 17200 et seq.). 2018 WL 2121800, at *10-12.

1 recovery [of actual damages] under the FCRA." Id.; see also Martinez v. Am. Express 2 Nat'l Bank, Case No. CV 21-8130-DMG (MAAx), 2022 WL 16571194, at *6 (C.D. Cal.
 3 Nov. 1, 2022) ("Actual damages may include emotional distress and humiliation under the 4 FCRA; a plaintiff is not required to show a denial of credit.") (citing Guimond, 45 F.3d at 5 1333). The Court accordingly denies BANA's motion on this ground.

6 The Court, however, agrees with BANA that Plaintiff fails to establish actual 7 damages in the form of emotional distress. (Id. at 9-10.) In the Complaint, Plaintiff merely 8 alleges she "suffered emotional distress and mental anguish" and "further suffered 9 humiliation and embarrassment." (ECF No. 1 at 9.) Without more, such allegations are 10 conclusory and thus insufficient to establish actual damages under the FCRA. See 11 Campbell v. Anniemac Home Mortg., Case No. CV 16-08795-AB (AJWx), 2017 WL 12 8180578, at *2 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 23, 2017) (dismissing negligent violation claim because 13 the plaintiff's allegation that she "suffered emotional distress, humiliation, and 14 embarrassment" from the defendant's actions were "conclusory" and not supported "with 15 specific claims of genuine injury") (citation omitted); Burnthorne-Martinez v. Sephora 16 USA, Inc., Case No. 16-cv-02843-YGR, 2016 WL 6892721, at *6 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 23, 17 2016) (same); Dewi v. Wells Fargo Bank, Case No. CV 12-2891 ABC (SHx), 2012 WL 18 10423239, at *8 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 8, 2012) ("[A] plaintiff must support her claim for pain and 19 suffering 'with something more than her own conclusory allegations,' such as specific 20 claims of genuine injury.") (citation and brackets omitted); but see Guimond, 45 F.3d at 21 1332-33 (suggesting that the plaintiff's alleged "emotional distress, manifested by 22 sleeplessness, nervousness, frustration, and mental anguish resulting from the incorrect 23 information in her credit report" sufficed to establish actual damages).

24 For these reasons, the Court denies BANA's motion to dismiss to the extent 25 Plaintiff alleges an injury to her creditworthiness due to BANA's alleged negligent FCRA 26 violation. However, the Court grants the motion to the extent Plaintiff alleges emotional 27 distress and humiliation for her negligent violation claim.

28

1 C. Leave to Amend

2 Plaintiff requests leave to amend if the Court dismisses any of Plaintiff's claims.
 3 The Court has discretion to grant leave to amend and should freely do so "when justice 4 so requires." Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a); see also Allen v. City of Beverly Hills, 911 F.2d 367, 5 373 (9th Cir. 1990). Nonetheless, the Court may deny leave to amend if it will cause: (1) 6 undue delay; (2) undue prejudice to the opposing party; (3) the request is made in bad 7 faith; (4) the party has repeatedly failed to cure deficiencies; or (5) the amendment would 8 be futile. See Leadsinger, Inc. v. BMG Music Publ'g, 512 F.3d 522, 532 (9th Cir. 2008).

9 Because amendment would not be futile, the Court grants Plaintiff leave to amend 10 the Complaint to cure the deficiencies outlined in this Order.

11 IV. CONCLUSION

12 The Court notes that the parties made several arguments and cited several cases 13 not discussed above. The Court has reviewed these arguments and cases and 14 determines that they do not warrant discussion as they do not affect the outcome of the 15 motions before the Court.

16 It is therefore ordered that Defendant Bank of America, N.A.'s motion to dismiss 17 (ECF No. 23) is granted in part and denied in part. The motion is granted to the extent 18 Plaintiff alleges actual damages in the form of emotional distress and humiliation for her 19 negligent violation claim. Otherwise, the motion is denied. The Court grants Plaintiff leave 20 to amend her FCRA claim to allege actual damages in the form of emotional distress and 21 humiliation to the extent she can cure the deficiencies identified herein. She must file the 22 amended complaint within 14 days. Plaintiff's failure to do so will result in the case 23 proceeding on the damage claims that survive dismissal.

24 It is further ordered that Plaintiff's motion to strike (ECF No. 28) is denied.

25 DATED THIS 14th Day of July 2023.
